Re: Letter dated September 30, 2006

Dear Mr. Dickinson,

I am sure you are very good at obtaining patents. Perhaps the problems with successfully completing this project are with my idea. However, the problems with communication and following up with your commitments lie directly with you and your firm.

Originally (About Sept. 2002) the idea was presented and you advised that there was a good chance the patent could be obtained. I understand this was not a promise or guarantee. You expected the fees to be about $1,500.00. A year later nothing had been accomplished and I had paid in excess of $3,200.00.

During this time I was never informed of any problems and when I did call your office, each and every time, I was told a new telephone meeting between you and an examiner would take place the following week. Each time, I requested an update after your meeting. Not once, not a single time, did I ever receive a call back from your office. The couple times I did follow up and request information I was told the meeting was put off, delayed or changed. Again, I was never contacted with the results of one of these telephone meetings.

Your most recent invoice is a good example; one hundred and twenty-six dollars for you to call and leave a message. I assume the other invoice for 2006 ($180.00) is for nothing as well. The current year is 2006, you started this in 2002.

I have called your office numerous times and told them to quit sending invoices. You have been paid double what you quoted. There have been no results. Nothing has been accomplished and you have done nothing to keep me informed. You seem to have no problem sending invoices but refuse to call me with information or updates. For some reason your records do not show the times I have called you requesting information or the times, which do not exist, that you have called me with information.

Your charges are frivolous, actually ridiculous. You should feel guilty you have collected over $3,200.00 and accomplished nothing. Again, quit sending invoices. I am not paying another penny for you to accomplish nothing and refusing to even call when requested.
